

Semi-Weekly Bourbon News.

Independent and Democratic—Published from the Happy Side of Life—for the Benefit of Those Now Having Breath in Their Bodies. Price, $2.00 for One Year, or, $2,000 for 1,000 Years—CASH!

VOL. II. PARIS, BOURBON COUNTY, KENTUCKY: TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1883. NO. 162.

COME out of that linen duster!
We had two slight frosts last week.
FALMOUTH fair this week, and Maysville next.
"School butter" and "chicken butter" both?
Snow fell at Argentine Pass, Cal., Thursday evening.
PAW-PAWS have made their appearance in our market.
SAVE your religion and get a hired man to put up your stove pipes.
W. A. JOHNSON and three other sports killed 80 doves Friday afternoon.
THE District Conference of the Methodist Church, begins to-morrow at Cynthiana.
If there's an oyster in this city, the owner ought to let it be known through the papers.
No balloons were sold at our fair last week—the best feature about the whole business.
SEVERAL arrests for gambling and disorderly conduct were made at our fair last week.
WHEN you go to the Latonia races at Covington, Saturday, stop at the Arlington House.

POTATOES are selling in Danville at twenty-three and a half cents per bushel, delivered on the cars.
THERE was not a single arrest made in our city last week, in consequence of the fair going on.
WINCHESTER is to have a fine railroad hotel, which will be built near the "Grand Union Depot."
Two preachers have been fined $50 each for shooting at a mark in the corporate limits of Midway.
JUDGE TURNER fined Tom Holliday, Jr., $5 and costs, yesterday, for disorderly conduct at the fair Friday.
HAYKLEY'S Minstrels Wednesday night, and Seaman's exhibition on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.
PAT FALLON lost a buggy whip marked with his initials, at the fair. The finder will be liberally thanked.

PUT on your winter under-duds and quit eating watermelon. You cannot make heaven out of this earth all the time!
CAPTAINS Joe Desha and Dan Turney were unintentionally omitted from our published list of attendants at the re-union last week.
JAS. L. BROWN, Deputy Collector for this district, has had Fleming county added to the territory over which he has supervision.
SEE the advertisement of J. T. Hill's farm at public sale, in this issue; also, the sale of E. C. Fosters property in Ruddles Mills to-morrow.
FROST throughout the Ohio valley has excited the Chicago corn market, and the price is going up daily. Hogs and hominy will come high the coming winter.

J. W. FERGUSON, president of the Bourbon County Agricultural Society, entertained several hundred guests in fine style in his private booth during the fair.
WE have been enjoying a great Northwest-ern breeze ever since Saturday morning. Hundreds of dear ducks looked like lumps of ice-cream at the fair Saturday.
SEPTEMBER brings its sorrows as well as its joys. The schools will want to be bragged on free through the papers, but then you know, the mosquitoes will have to leave.
ROCHE & SCHWARTZ came out ahead of the bounds about $200 on their dining hall and booth investment at the fair grounds. It is hard-earned money, and they truly deserve it.

F. A. BRADLEY, of Cincinnati, has opened a "bucket shop," at the Bourbon House, this city, and will deal in fractional lots, grains and provisions in Chicago, or stocks in New York.
THE Lexington races were never so slimly attended. When the managers find that the Lexington papers do not get out of the city limits, they'll no doubt find the true cause of the failure.
A COLORED man near Lexington got jealous of his rival, and shot him through the key-hole in the door, last week, at Jos. Bryan's farm. The wound is not serious, but he severely broke up the game.

"THE world goes 'round and 'round; whiskey's got me, and I've got whiskey," soliloquized a Carlisle darkey at our fair Saturday, while he appeared to be trying to keep a tree from falling on the grand stand.
IN 1880, there were 51 murders committed in Kentucky. In 1882, there were 98. Up to Aug. 15, this year, there were 109. It only costs about $500 to kill a man and get clear, therefore the luxury has been profusely indulged in.
THE Bourbon Fair the past week was largely attended. The new amphitheater was filled each day, and the half-mile race track gave general satisfaction. As a financial success it is said to have surpassed the Lexington Fair.—(Lexington Observer.)

IN way of a compliment to the integrity of character of Mr. Sidney P. Clay, Thos. Jones, Sr., who died in this city recently, devised that the County Court should appoint him executor of his estate and guardian for his daughter, Miss Lillie without bond.
T. M. CECIL, of Catlettsburg, denies that his brother, J. G. Cecil, Register of the Land Office, made a bargain with Sheldon and Norvell, as claimed by the latter. Sheldon and Norvell are still holding the fort, while Cecil is fixing to bring suit for possession.
ON Thursday as Mr. S. D. Goff of Clark county was driving a lot of fat cattle over a bridge across Elkhorn, in Scott county, the bridge broke and fell in, killing five of the cattle and crippling a number of others. Mr. Goff fortunately escaped without injury.

FALL FISHING will next be in order.
THE roof burned off the kitchen of the old Lowry place in Cottontown yesterday. No alarm.
WM. ISGRIGG's barn burned last night about 1 1/2 miles North of town. Loss, $1,000, without insurance. Mr. Isgrigg thinks it is the work of an incendiary.
LICENSE were issued about 9 o'clock last night for the marriage of J. H. Maddux to Miss Nannie B. Howerton, daughter of Chas. H. Howerton, deceased, of this city.
A NEW JERSEY man invented a tail-weight—a small iron ball to keep his cow's tail down. It wasn't heavy enough for the purpose, but it broke his jaw all the same.

ROBERT E. LEE, youngest son of the late Confederate General, has declined a Democratic nomination for the Legislature of Virginia, saying that he has no taste for politics.
MRS. J. E. PATON left for New York city yesterday. While absent she will learn all that is new in art needle work, and will return in about two weeks with the handsomest assortment of fancy goods and notions ever brought to this city.
THE Louisville fair commences next Tuesday, and holds until Saturday. The races commence the 24th, and continue through the week. Falmouth fair commences to-day, and Maysville fair next Tuesday. Latonia races begin Saturday, and the Lexington races are now going on.

THREE hundred mourners for Barnum's circus wiped their weeping eyes and had their money refunded at Midway, because a wreck on the railroad prevented a train from passing to Lexington in time for either performance. Cruel fate got a good cussing on that memorable occasion.
L. C. TIPPON, traveling agent for the Denbent Twine Binder, who has been an attendant at our fair for 30 years, and J. H. Robinson, of Seymour, Ind., who has been an attendant for 15 years, say that they got the best dinners at the public dining hall last week than they ever before got on the Bourbon or any other fair grounds. This speaks well for Roche & Schwartz as caterers.

THE flag of the 6th Missouri regiment of Confederate infantry was on exhibition at the reunion of the Orphan Brigade at Lexington. Color Sergeant Eugene Hull carried it in a charge at Corinth, Miss., where he received nine wounds, and 26 out of 28 commissioned officers, and 22 out of 23 non-commissioned officers were killed or wounded. The flag was pierced with many bullets.
THERE'S big trouble among the colored prostitutes of this city. Scarcely a day passes but what one or more calls at this office and inquires for the "Mare's" office, wanting a warrant for the arrest of some scoundrel on the road and shoot. The "Mare" ought to have a big red sign as large as a freight car hung out in front of his office, and save a deal of annoyance at the News office.

ON Sunday night Mr. George M. Welsh met with an accident which resulted in his death. He was visiting his brother, Dr. S. D. Welch, near Hanly, and on the night named went from the house to the barn to feed his horse and on his return to the house he stumbled and fell into a cistern which was being dug, causing concussion of the brain and other internal injuries from which he died Wednesday night.—(Jesseamine Journal.)
A Bourbon Patent Infringed On.
A CLIPPING from the Virginia City (Nevada) Enterprise, in the Cincinnati Enquirer of Saturday, shows that a man named Jim Townsend, of the mining districts of that State, is infringing on patent No. 22728 issued Feb. 20th, of this year, by Mr. Wm. Shaw, of this city, on Shaw's Gravitation Grain-Cleaner and Cooler. The infringement being operated in the crushing mills of the mines are run by the sand operation, consisting in buckets and over-shot wheels exactly on the same principle by which Mr. Shaw's is operated by wheat. Mr. Shaw has been written by some one in California, for one of his circulars that he sends out, and it is supposed he too, wants to get up an infringement. Mr. Shaw will at once demand a royalty on all machinery operated on the gravitation principle, unless special rights are secured from him.

"White Man Mighty Uncertain—Negro More So."
ANTHONY THORNTON, an old and respected citizen of this city, is not much in the habit of drinking wine when it is red, but unfortunately took too much at the fair Friday, and was forced to lay up on the roadside for repairs, whilst coming home. A dream awakened him some time after dark—either a dream or a black man, he doesn't know which. At any rate, the black man was there when he awakened, and he handed him his pocket-book in confidence, to keep the soldiers from robbing him, as he dreamed they would. The black man did not return the pocket-book and $25 the next morning, according to promise, and now Mr. Thornton has about as little confidence in a black man as a dream, or a dream as a black man.

Forty-sixth Bourbon Fair.
THE 46th meeting of the Bourbon County Agricultural Society was a success in every particular but one—that of furnishing colors for the participants in the races. This was a terrible oversight, and one that should not be overlooked at the next meeting. One half of the interest in a horse race is to know one horse from another, the owner, &c. It's just like seeing an unusually pretty lady; everybody wants to know her name, pedigree, and amount she is worth.
The financial receipts this year exceeds those of last year by $2,000, while the attendance was in much greater proportions, considering the receipts were cut down by a non-requirement of entrance fees.
There is no doubt but the racing was a drawing and interesting feature of the fair, which makes it not only more desirable in point of pleasure, but in finances also.
By next exhibition, the feral hall will be moved from its present site and newly erected, colors will be furnished in the trots, and then not an objection can be urged.

SCINTILLATIONS.
—What Paris boy was it who left his pants at Millersburg?
—Mrs. Gen. Williams attended our fair Thursday and Friday.
—Elder John I. Rogers, of Danville, is visiting friends in this city.
—Miss Maggie Scott has been employed as teacher at the Jos. Honey school house.
—Messrs. B. L. Valve, O. Y. Ster and J. Frost have arrived here to spend several months.
—Mrs. Phil. Thompson, Jr., has been visiting Lexington in company with Mrs. Judge Hardin, of Harrodsburg.
—Mary Anderson has refused to be introduced to the Prince of Wales. She doesn't like his style like the fair Lily did.
—School girls are moving out, coming in and passing through on alltrains. It's nothing but chew, chew, chew, chew!
—James Stewart, clerk for Ottwell & Wilson, will leave Thursday for Wheeling, W. Va., to go into the wholesale drug business.
—Miss Sicily Pryor has returned home from Ohio, after a visit to friends for some weeks, accompanied by Chas. Jackson, of Xenia, Ohio.

Six deaf mutes—four from this county, one from Carlisle, and one from Richmond, had quite a little picnic to themselves at our fair Saturday.
—Mrs. Monk and sister, Miss Moses, of Louisville, and Mrs. Bryant, of Lexington, were the guests of Mrs. Nat Rogers, last week, and attended the fair.
—Miss Lillie Souder and three other young ladies from Fleming county, passed through here en route for Bellwood Seminary, at Anchorage, to attend school.
—Mr. S. M. McGee and family, of Double Wells, Ark., attended our fair Friday and Saturday, and were delighted with our Kentucky way of doing things generally.

A new version of "East Lynne" has been written for Mrs. Chastnut. It makes the heroine older and stouter in the first act, and contains a pint of tears more than the old play.
—Hon. Joe Blackburn has taken an iron-clad oath to never go to another circus, since attending Barnum's last week in Louisville. He says that if he could be convinced that the Southwestern corner of down yonder is any hotter, he'd break into a meeting house at midnight to get religion.
—Dr. David Lyman, of this city, recently sent a marked copy of the Kentuckian to a lady friend at a distance, which was returned to him with instructions to be careful what locals he marked in future. He had marked a local notice of a remedy for kidney and liver disease instead of a personal notice regarding his trip to Philadelphia.

Imagine an old she camel chewing her cud, and you have a correct picture of the dissatisfied married woman and the frisky widow who chews gum. The little senseless dudines who chew it looks like the little senseless she camels chewing their cud. If any of our subscribers do not like this notice, they can plead guilty to the charge and stop their papers.
—Miss Fannie Templeman, from near Moorefield, Nicholas county, who contributed the principal attraction toward the make-up of both single and double turnouts at our fair which took the premiums, wears the enviable honors of being the handsomest lady at our fair. It strikes us very forcibly that if she'll only visit Paris once more, she can contribute largely toward making a very handsome double team that wouldn't be easy to unhitch and remarkably hard to handle. But, since we come to think of it, a Nicholas gentleman of sterling worth, has a prior claim on her.

Who's Got the other Pistol?
THE Hon. Joe Blackburn paid us a social call Saturday night, and the NEWS was highly entertained with an hours draft on his fund of general knowledge and glib conversation on all topics. In speaking of the general good feeling between the ex-soldiers of the North and South, the return of trophies captured in war, &c., he related a little incident in which he was himself a participant coincidental with quite a number of other rare instances which have but recently been consumed in way of returning rare relics. In 1861, while he was making his way South to enter the Confederate service, he was captured by the Federal troops at Elizabethtown, and a very fine pair of Irish dueling pistols which had been handed down to him as an heir-loom, were taken from him. Eight years later, when peace had spread her silvery wings over the land and the bloody chasm still stood fresh yawning, he was attorney in a civil suit for a client at Danville, and his business called him into the office of Col. Faulkner, formerly commandant of a Federal regiment, who, on opening a drawer of his desk, revealed to the eye of Blackburn the butt of a fine pistol, which his practiced eye at once discovered as his. He remarked at once that it was his, and proceeded to minutely describe it in detail regarding many points, even giving the manufacturer's name. Col. Faulkner told him that he had described it to a dot, and acknowledged that it must certainly be his (Blackburn's), but said nothing about giving it up, and Blackburn conceded that it was Faulkner's by all the rights of war, and made no further claim than its recognition. Last week, in Louisville, when the gallant congressman had mopped off his massive brow the four-hundredth time and had just finished taking an oath before his wife and little "Dot" to never attend Barnum's or any other circus in his life, he left wife and daughter for a moment and dropped into the Cotton Exchange to "see a man," when Col. Faulkner proceeded to lock the door, go to his valise, produced the long-lost pistol and presented the butt end of it to his extended and welcome hand. Col. Faulkner explained that he had bought it during the war at a pawn-broker's office in Cincinnati, where some unknown private soldier had pawned it for two dollars. This statement was no doubt true, to the mind of Capt. Blackburn, for to his positive knowledge Col. Faulkner commanded a different regiment from that which captured himself and pistols, and was not at Elizabethtown at that time.

The mate to the rare relic is still at large, but we hope that this incident may be the means of it's being returned to it's proper owner.

The Trader, Turfman, Farmer and Sportsman.
During the fair, $1,000 worth of pools were sold on the races, by the Paris pool syndicate.
The Winchester Sun names four men of that place, who killed 270 doves in four hours.
—Emmett Fitzgerald, the jockey, has gone to the Falmouth fair to engage in the pool-selling business.
For SALE.—Finest saddle and harness horse in the county. Address, Jas. N. Stone Little Rock, Ky.
The Lorillard Champion Stallion Stake, worth over $30,000 to the winner, will be run September 29th, at Louisville.
R. Gentry, of Boyle county, threshed 800 bushels of barley from 13 acres—a fraction of over 46 bushels to the acre.

At the fair Saturday, Reville won the Free For All, Pattie Macy the Pacing Race, and Skinner's gray mule the running race.
Gus. Shropshire has sold to Maj. McDowell, for another party, his fine saddle horse that took the premium at the fair. Price $1,500.
The Peck farm of 196 acres on the Harrodsburg pike near Lexington, sold last week to Claude Higgins, for $117.55 per acre.
Pool-selling was a big success at this place last week. Over 1,500 pools were sold during the week—the pools ranging from $10 to $25 each.
Jack Hook and Cyclone will not follow the circuit to Falmouth this week, but will watch on at Maysville. Jeff Elgin will show Bob Terrill at Falmouth, though.

The largest cow in America, it is believed, belongs to John Pratt, of Chase County, Kansas. It is three years old, twenty-two hands high, and weighs 3,200 pounds.
Eole, Freddy Gebhardt's race-horse, will be sent to England to take part in the Cesarewitch and Cambridgeshire handicaps, in both of which events he has been entered by cable.
"Jug" West, Gen. Buford's old race-rider, and of late years Harper's favorite rider, died recently at Midway. He rode Enquirer, McWhirer, Ten Frocks, Longfellow, Neezy Hale and other winners.
The cattle murrain is prevailing at Guthrie, Ky., and slowly spreading to the surrounding country. Fifty head of cattle have died. It is thought the disease was introduced by some Alabama cattle.

The Lexington races Friday resulted: Mile dash, Lizzie S., first; Liatunah, second; Belle of the Highlands, third-time, 1:35. One and one-half miles, Viley Stakes: Violator, first; Obermyer, second; Queen Ban, third-time, 2:41. Three-quarters of a mile, Filly Stakes: Eva S., first; Highflyer, second-time, 1:17 1/2.
The horse Reville, that beat Cyclone Friday, derived its name from the French word "reville," to awaken—to get up. It is the army phrase for turning out for roll-call in the morning. The accent should be placed on the last syllable, as revil-le. Hundreds pronounced it "Reville" last week, while many pronounced it "Re-ville."

The offerings in the Cincinnati tobacco market were very light last week, and mostly low grades were offered. Full prices were obtained on all grades—particularly the low. The Globe Warehouse sold 297 hogs-heads, the low grades bringing from 5 to 14, the high grades from 20 to 24. The early frosts will no doubt excite the market this week and unsettle things very much.

To the wife of Jeff Elgin, Sunday night, a boy.
To the wife of W. O. Carriek, of this county, a boy.
—James Batterton, one of the cleverest saloon-keepers in the world, left in company with Miss Sauer, of this city this morning, bent on committing matrimony as soon as the train arrives in Covington.

At North Middletown, Sunday, Mr. Dudley Wade, an aged and respected citizen.
In this city Sunday, of consumption, Miss Mary Beall, and sister of Newton Beall, now of Cincinnati.
Mrs. A. Shire, wife of the jeweler, and daughter of John Price, the clothier, of this city, died very suddenly last night about half-past eight o'clock, of rheumatism of the heart. She had been suffering severely of rheumatism of the limbs for two days, and rheumatic irritation extending to the muscles of the heart, produced sudden death.
Joseph Doehrer, a well-known young man, who has been many years in the service of the Government as storekeeper, died suddenly Sunday afternoon, of congestion of the lungs. Although for a long time a sufferer of consumption, he has always been at his post of duty. He attended the fair Saturday and became thoroughly chilled, which no doubt hastened the hemorrhage, which was inevitable, however. "Captain" Doehrer, as he was familiarly called, was a thorough conversationalist, brilliant in repartee, and was hard to down on a joke. He was the friend of everybody, and everybody was his friend. Funeral services at his mother's residence to-day at 1:30 o'clock; burial at the Lexington cemetery.
